Product range small locker

LO

The third LO Guard function, the personal locker, is Lista Office LO's response to the evolution in today's business world. With the trend for remote working on the rise, people no longer have their own desk or workstation. Instead, they can use a locker: on arrival, they take out what they need for their work, and stow their personal items in the locker. In the evening, the work material is returned to the locker and the personal items come out.

Thanks to LO Guard's efficient system, unused workstations are always cleared. The storage compartments can be switched between personal and shared use – for example, an employee could charge their personal phone in a locked compartment, then later make the compartment accessible to others. LO Guard can be adapted to individual needs and according to the situation..
